

BLINK PRODUCT DESIGN OFFERS UNIQUE AND EXCLUSIVE PRODUCTS THAT ARE ENVIRONMENTALLY CONSCIOUS

SEATTLE, WA – Aug. 20, 2009 – Blink Product Design intends to stand out in the custom-branded merchandise industry by providing unique, elegant and exclusively designed products that are kind to the environment.

The company was founded on the idea of creating beautifully functioning products with excellent packaging, combined with a desire to help the planet and give back to the environment – a dramatically different approach in the industry. Blink's products elevate a company's brand and keep them remembered, through items that people love to use.

Blink's motto, "Gift the Unexpected," is reflected in its distinct business product offerings, including journals, card cases, jotters, desk accessories, frames and portfolios, all made of recycled and environmentally-friendly materials. All products use recycled papers, cardboard and other materials, in addition to lead-free paints, non toxic glues and inks.

Blink is a direct product supplier, which provides customers with a better overall value through lower costs and an attention to detail usually not found in the merchandise industry.

"We design all of our products with both purpose and function so that companies can extend their brand with thoughtful and unique gifts for their clients, potential clients and employees," said Brian Bozlinski, president of Blink Product Design. "In a crowded marketplace, our products help companies stay remembered with the right message."

The company also provides exceptional customer service by providing clients with a streamlined production process from estimates to sample approval to final delivery. The attention to detail allows Blink to deliver customized products within four-eight weeks.

Blink is a proud contributor to 1% for the Planet and has designated Cascade Land Conservancy to receive one percent of net profits.
